Working into our Hearts

A year ago we received an email from a family of six from Nevada who wanted to participate in missions. After many months of preparation the day finally arrived and we had the pleasure of meeting the Keatings here in Costa Rica. They came with hearts ready to work and participate in what God had planned for them. We were able to share the many facets of Costa Rican living, and demonstrate the bigger picture of the efforts needed locally. I know one of the questions they had, was if they truly left a mark here in the ministry. I will tell you YES! Every part of sharing time and effort with other believers intent on serving the Lord in whatever way is possible is a blessing to our hearts.

Our short term missions experience is detailed on our website if you are interested as well.
