

Missionary Musings

KAREN WELKER | MARCH 2023

DEAR FRIENDS,

God has been faithful to me. He continues to heal not only my physical heart, but in my emotions as well.

This has been a busy time for me. I have been studying Transformational Leadership via internet and Zoom for 6 weeks now. It will be finished in 2 weeks. (Hurrah!) As part of the Member Care Team, I am also doing Rhythms, another online program which is provided by our psychologist, which leads to being able to coach people to health and wellness. I have taken on several more missionaries to follow in member care. I have a young family with a child and missionaries old enough to retire, but not retiring. Both require time.

February was a busy month at the Launch Center. I had some wonderful Christian people who were leaders, prayer warriors and missionaries. Christina White, someone I knew at Elim, was here; I tried to teach her a bit of music theory so she could follow other worship leaders in "guitar chords". Anita Horton, my friend since 1990 in Thailand, and her sister came. They lost a brother and sister-in-law in a head on collision last month. There are also other recent tragic incidents in this family and they covet your prayers as well. I hosted Stan, who is doing Door Dash because he has a problem with his heart. Pray that Stan finds Jesus as his friend.

In the midst of this, the carpet in my room at the Center was replaced with tile (I requested this.) I was unaware of how much energy it would take. If I was done with replacing everything in the room to suit me, I would include a picture. Maybe next time.

With all the above activities, I took a month hiatus from Transformation Prayer Ministry but will start up mid-March. I covet your prayers. My health is good but I am not getting any younger. May God bless you as you participate in this ministry by your prayers and giving.
